

as

Clause 1		Clause 2
Sweat dripped down my nose My hair became wet with sweat A bead of sweat rolled down my face I was desperate for a drink of water I fanned my face  A tear rolled down my face My eyes filled with tears I wiped tears from my eyes I sobbed I looked at the ground  My hands began to tremble My mouth fell open I started to go weak at the knees I trembled from head to foot  My heart beat quickly My eyes slowly closed	as	London smouldered  the smoke rose high into the sky  the city burned to the ground  the flames flickered higher  big, black, sooty clouds filled the London sky  I watched the city burn to the ground  the fire spread from house to house  smoke filled the sky  flames ripped through people's homes  the houses of London were torn down  the flames marched towards St Paul's Cathedral