

For months and months the ark tossed on the waves of a huge empty sea. At last, the rain stopped and the water began to go down a little.
Noah opened a window and sent off a raven. "Go and find some dry land," he said. The raven flew a very long way but it couldn't find any dry land.

