

Different Types of Sentences

1. Circle the sentence which has been punctuated correctly.

A. Turn the oven off?

B. What time does the postman usually come?

C. What a beautiful sunny day it is?

VF

4. Ivan thinks all these sentences are statements because they are about Tom.

A. Tom went out to play football.

B. Where is Tom.

C. Clean your muddy shoes, Tom.

D. How rude Tom was.

Is he correct? Explain why.

R

2. Which of the sentences below are not exclamation sentences?

A. On Thursday evening, I walked past a dark, spooky house.

B. How fantastic the show was!

C. Come back now!

VF

5. Luna thinks her sentence needs a question mark because it has the word 'can' in.

I can swim a full length underwater

Is she correct? Convince me.

R

3. Which of these sentences have been matched incorrectly?

A. When will the library close?

a question

B. How funny she was!

a command

C. A bird was tweeting.

a statement

D. Put your chairs under the table.

an exclamation

VF

6. Peter is writing a story about dragons. Write a statement that he might use.

Remember to punctuate correctly.

A

Different Types of Sentences

1. B
2. A and C
3. B and D
4. No, Ivan is incorrect because the same noun can be used for different types of sentences. A is a statement sentence, B is a question sentence, C is a command and D is an exclamation sentence.
5. No, Luna is incorrect because her sentence is a statement about her being able to swim underwater. We can include question words within other sentences types. If Luna had written 'Can I swim a full length underwater?' it would be a question sentence.
6. Various answers, for example: The hero battled long and hard with the ferocious dragon. The incredible, scaly creature with vengeful eyes breathed a gulf of fire towards the village.